

'As each has received a gift, use it to serve one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace.'

1 Peter 4:10

Characteristics of Effective Learning in the EYFS

The characteristics of effective learning are:

Playing and Exploring – engagement

Active Learning – motivation

Creating and Thinking Critically

Here at Morley, we look closely at how our children learn. We work hard to provide rich and stimulated activities based on the interests of the children and what we observe when they are playing. We strive for our children to develop a love of learning, to be inspired through experiences in school and to develop confidence in their own abilities.

Children at Morley are creators, collaborators, communicators and critical thinkers. Through activities, children investigate and experience things, they have a go and they keep on trying. Children begin to develop their own ideas, make links, take risks and learn through trial and error.

We are interested in how our children learn rather just than what they are learning, as practitioners we focus in on the process for each child. We know that during their earliest years, children form attitudes about learning that will last a lifetime and children who receive the right sort of support and encouragement during these years will go on to be creative and adventurous learners throughout their lives.
